CAT INSPECTOR
PROPOSED FOR
LOS ANGELES

Neighbor of Woman Owning Two Toms and Sixteen Tabbies Complains.

By International News Service.

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 17.—Creation of the office of cat inspector and an ordinance requiring all felines in Los Angeles to be licensed is proposed in a letter sent to City Council by a woman who says she has a neighbor with eighteen cats, which she declares are disturbing her slumbers and damaging her garden and flower beds.

When the communication was read councilmen remarked that the city would be swamped with applications from married men in Los Angeles for the position of cat inspector, as it was contended the operations of this official would be largely carried out during the night, when the inspector would attempt to squelch the cat wallows on back alley fences.

"The married men will want the job as an excuse to get out to the club," said Councilman Mallard.

The communication, which has been referred to the council's welfare committee for consideration, follows, in part:

"I wish to make the suggestion that a law be passed to license cats, male and female, in the same manner as dogs are licensed, for the benefit of the public health. Next door to me there are sixteen females (cats) and two toms.

"We cannot rest at night. They destroy my garden and flowers and damage my property. I am a taxpayer and the owners of these cats are renters.

"I called on the city prosecutor and he informed me there was no law compelling owners of cats to pen them up."

The Latest Word from Paris

PARIS, France.

FOR daytime street wear Paris suggests a three-piece tailleur as smart as it is serviceable and a trim little velvet hat. The model sketches at the left, of slate-blue wool velours, is loose and moderately short of coat, having blouse and coat collar attractively trimmed with narrow black braid. Strips of the velours, intended to tie the collar, also have the braid applied from end to end. There are three useful pockets—braid trimmed, and two buttons intended only to amuse!

FOR slightly more formal occasions, the gown worn with a wrap of fur is indorsed by Paris. Black duvetyn collared and girdled in black moire and ever so lightly touched with silver appears to advantage beneath a short cape of black caracul. The bodice has a gilet of black net traced with silver, which is a modish alternative to the "bateau" neckline, and the long sleeves are of net similarly treated. Loops of braid on the cape fasten about a row of small jet buttons.
